Frequently asked questions

Can I withdraw my Post OPT application?

Please contact the ISSC immediately to receive further advisement as a withdrawal is not always guaranteed to happen due to USCIS's processing time.

Can I do a second POST-OPT after I finish a second degree?

Students can be eligible for 12 months of OPT (including Pre and Post) at each higher degree level completed. For example, if a student was granted OPT at a bachelor's level, OPT for another bachelor's degree is no longer available. For students with multiple majors at the same degree level, only one major can be used when applying for Post-OPT.

Can I change employers while on Post OPT?

Yes, as long as the new employment is directly related to the field of study and is a minimum of 20 hours per week. No special permission is required to change employers. Please remember you must report all updates within 10 days of the change to the SEVP Portal. sevp.ice.gov/opt/#/login.

Can I start working once I file my Post OPT application with USCIS?

No, work cannot begin until after the application is approved and you receive your EAD card and the valid from date occurs. This includes volunteer and intern positions.

Can I start a new degree program while on Post-OPT?

You can start a new degree during your work authorization, however, your OPT work authorization will be invalidated once your new I-20 is issued.

FAQs continued

What is my visa status after I complete my program?

You will remain in F-1 status while your application is being processed, during your Post-OPT authorization and during your 60-day grace period upon completion of your OPT authorization.

A

Can I extend my Post-OPT authorization?

There are no extensions of the Post-OPT work authorization unless you are eligible for the STEM OPT Extension. Once your Post-OPT authorization ends, you have a 60-day grace period to either change your visa status, transfer to another school, pursue another degree at ASU or depart the US.

When should I apply for STEM OPT if I am eligible?

You may apply for STEM OPT no more than 100 days prior to end date of your Post-OPT, but must apply before your Post-OPT authorization expires. This will maximize your opportunity to receive your EAD card on time.

I have been unemployed for almost 90 days. What do I do?

If you accumulate 90+ days of unemployment on Post-OPT, you should plan to depart the US. Please note while on Post-OPT, volunteer and intern positions can be utilized to not accrue unemployment days as long as the position is directly related to your field of study and at least minimum of 20 hours per week.

My 60-day grace period has ended but my application has not been approved. What do I do?

As long as your application was received by USCIS, you are permitted to stay in the U.S. until your application is processed. Please keep in mind, you cannot work, intern or volunteer until the start date on your EAD card.

Thanks for contacting the ISSC, have a great day!

Career Services Resources

ASU students have access to free self-paced and discounted in-person prep to a variety of graduate exams? Thanks to a partnership with The Princeton Review, Sun Devils can take their preparation for the GRE, GMAT, LSAT, or MCAT to the next level. Learn more here!

The #1 piece of feedback employers give is that applicants do not tailor their materials to the position they are applying for. Make sure to read the job description clearly to make sure your experiences fit what the employer is looking for, and then update your resume and cover letter to make it clear why you are the right fit! You can have your resume reviewed in a number of ways. We recommend making use of resources in this order:

1. View examples of resumes and application materials
2. Get immediate feedback by leveraging the VMock platform.
